The demand for nurses at the Howard association headquarters to-day has been frecess of the supply. The present warm weather tended to favor the spreading of the fever, and reports from the interior give gloomy accounts of the condition of affairs.

Shariff J. W. Anderson is reported in a critical condition. A. F. Dodd, the well-known stationer, was taken down this afternoon. The appeals for physicians from adjacent towns, which have been responded to left a searcity of medical men in Memphis, and the demand for their services is increasing daily. Twenty-six deaths during the 24 hours ending at 6 to-night; 22 additional deaths outside the city limits for the same period.

Unusual activity prevails at the Howard association headquarters this morning, aurses being sent to all interior towns adjacent to Memphis where the fever has appeared. Dr. Hunter, at Masons, Tenn., reports 9 new cases yesterday. A telegram from Collinsville, Tenn., announces eight new cases there. Five new cases are reported at Galoway. Ex-United States Marshal J. SCHURZ is snubbed again. The republican national committee do not propose to circulate his recent elaborate oration in Cincinnati. They paid him well for it, quire into the peculiarites of the disease but it appears that they by no means got the worth of their money. THE campaign of the sutlers in Indiana is not as fervid as it is in Iowa, but it is pretty warm. A new rebellion threatens to break out at any moment, and, under the circumstances, the average patriot is justified in taking an extra swig of bug-

He believes that the greates need of the south is good teachers-teachers expressly educated for their work. With this object in view a considerable number of scholarships in the normal schools of Nashville and New Orleans were established last year, and that too with an excellent effect. Very successful efforts were also made during the year towards an approximation in the great mass of teachers to the standard of those professionally educated. Local Legislation. Under the new constitution, we are to have a new and more economical mode of making local laws. Under the old constitution, local legislation had grown to such proportions that it became abso lutely necessary to put a check upon it in order that the expensive evil might be constitution took steps to remedy the evil. Whether the effort to put an end cessful or not remains to be seen. It will have to be tested, and it will fall to the lot of the next legislature to test the matter.

The evidence of notice having been published shall be exhibited in the general assembly before such act shall be passed." These are the words of the new constitution. The question as to whether there can be any local legislation at the first session of the general assembly has been discussed by some of the leading men of our state through the columns of the Augusta Chronicle and Constitutionalist, and this discussion has developed the fact that there is considerable difference of opinion upon the subject. We are strongly inclined to believe that, under the section quoted above, there can be no valid local legislation until it is done "in "the manner prescribed by law." In the first place, the legislature adapting its tution, will be compelled to prescribe the details of the method by which local legislation is to be effected; and if this opinion be correct, there can be no local leg islotion at the first session of the general assembly. Paragraph 15, of the same article and section from which we have already quoted provides that "all special or local bills shall originate in the house of representatives. The speaker of the house of representatives shall within five days from the organization of the general assembly, appoint a committee consisting of one from each congressional district, whose duty it shall be to consider and consolidate all special and local bills on the same subject, and report the same to the house; and no special or local bill shall be read or considered by the house until the same has been reported by said committee, unless by a two-thirds vote. We are pleased to note, as an evidence of substantial prosperity in the south, that our brilliant and esteemed contemporary, The ATLANYA CONSTITUTION, has been, to use its own phrase, "revised and amended, so to speak." In other words, it gives token of the phenomenal success that has attended itduring the past two years—its subscription lists having been more than doubled during that time—by donning a new dress of type which places it far ahadd in appearafice of any other of our southern exchanges. It deserves its success.

We give place to-day, at the head of our column to a poetic production of Samuel W. Small, of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION. It is one of the purest gems of poetic literature published of late and serves to show, by its rough rhythm, the tru feeling existing in the breasts of our southern the man who sells beer in the basement of the tail tower. The Texas Pacific and the South.

New York Times.

Col. Thomas Scott lost his main chance when congress adjourned without having done anything to help his Texas Pacific project. There was hope for him as long as it seemed possible to persuade the south that his plans were favorable to its interests. For though the south, unaided, would be unable to carry its point, it might, by an adroit use of the log-rolling process, obtain the co-operation of other interests to an extent that would make success reasonably certain. The southern members did apply these tactics so far as to delay various enterprises with the view of forcing their promoters into terms with the Texas Pacific people. Foiled himself, Col. Scott resolved upon preventing the success of others. His enting the success of others. His from the northwest as the price of and to rendered next session by southern mems. The president of the Pennsylvania road on the occasion played into the dist of his enemies. He enabled the ion and Central Pacific companies to mighten their monopoly materially. And, or all, he accomplished nothing for him. The session ended and the Texas Patwas nowhere. Then the south because ible. Enthusiasm in behalf of a bona fide conthern onterprise would be intelligible. But here is a scheme originating at the morth, managed by northern men identified with northern corporations, and pointing directly to the benefit of the Pennsylvania corporation. The Pennsylvania shareholders have allowed their chief officer to remain associated with the Texas Pacific only because it would be made tributary to their profits; and Colonel Scott has repaid their ronfidence by so managing matters as to bring all there is of a Texas Pacific road into a position which will secure the through traffic via St. Louis to Pennsylvania. These facts lie so near the surface that ignorance of them is almost inexcusable. And yet we must assume that public men, of whom Senator Lamar is a fair example, would not have committed themselves to the support of Colonel Scott and his scheme had they really understood the motives of one or the nature of the other. Sectional enthusiasm in this instance overcame their judgment. Fine words stimulated their credulity and they fell into the trap designed for them. The support accorded by southern newspapers is more easily accounted for. The gallant colonel borrowed a leaf out of Mr. Tilden's book, and his agents had little trouble with the press. Thus the south, which cared only for a line of its own to the Pacific, was induced to accept the Texas Pacific as the thing it wanted.

Since the adjournment, however, skeptican has revealed itself in various states.
